Before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third district court, Friday, came Robert R. Main and Charles C. Green, minors, both being eighteen, charged with the reckless operation of automobile trucks in Hay street, Watch Hill. The boys pleaded guilty to driving at a speed in excess of fifteen miles an hour. It was demonstrated that the boys were not in condition to pay substantial fines, having given over their earnings in aid of family support. The court decided to suspend sentence and the boys were placed on probation with instruction to re-port to the judge Friday mornings.

The case against Walter J. Reid, ar-rested on the charge of abandonment and non-support of his wife, several weeks ago was discontinued. It was explained by Town Solicitor Agard and Attorney John J. Dunn, counsel for accused, that the parties to the suit were reconciled and are living together.

The continued case of the state against Duresco Parino, charged with an as-sault upon Louis Deutch, was called. Attorney Dunn, representing the ac-cused, withdrew the former plea of not guilty, and admitted sufficient evidence to convict. Town Solicitor Agard told the court that Parino was a tenant of Deutch, was behind in his rent and a lawyer's letter was sent Parino. In meeting Deutch in Pierce street Parino became enraged over the letter. He called Deutch opprobrious names and produced a weapon, which the police be-lieve was a revolver. Deutch was ter-rorized and ran for protection to the home of a friend. No actual bodily harm was done Deutch. Mr. Agard said the claim was made that the revolver was of the toy type and later was given to the chief of police by Parino.

Attorney Dunn told the court of the excellent character of the accused, of his frugality and his faithfulness in the support of his wife and four children. He admitted that there was a technical assault insisting that Parino had taken the toy revolver from his boy the day before, and that in removing his hand from his pocket the toy revolver dropped to the ground. It was not even pointed at Deutch according to the at-torney. He did not think his client was responsible for the cowardice of Deutch. The toy revolver was produced. It was of the automatic design and dangerous in appearance. Judge Williams remarked that if the toy shooter were pointed at him, he would be as much feared as if the weapon were the real article, and would kill. There was evidently good ground for fear on the part of Deutch and he ought to be absolved of the charge of cowardice. Judge Williams imposed a fine of $15, with costs added.

At the annual meeting held Friday in the state house of the board of health elected these officers: Dr. R. Merton

Smith of Riverpoint, president; Dr. Thomas J. McLaughlin, of Woonsocket, vice president; Dr. Byron U. Richards, of Pawtucket, secretary. Preparations were made for the quarterly examination of candidates to practice medicine in Rhode Island next Thursday.
